SHARING ADVENTURES IN GENEALOGY: INTERVIEWS WITH MEMBERS OF THE GENEALOGICAL SOCIETY OF WASHTENAW COUNTY
(Part Three)

By Carol Uhal

In this issue of Capers, we are asking genealogy-related questions of two members of the GSWC. Selected to be interviewed for this issue were Pamela Gibb and Marcia McCrary. Pam's and Marcia's roots range from deep in Washtenaw County and into Macomb and Oakland counties as well as the New England states and Montreal, Canada.

Question: When did you start researching your ancestors and what made you interested in genealogy?

Pam Gibb: When my two boys were in elementary school in the 1970s, one of their class assignments was to ask about family history. My paternal uncle and aunt, Ronald and Florine (Hurst) Brunger, had always been interested in family history and had handwritten a family tree that went back to John Carpenter in 1303. They brought that tree over and spread it out on the kitchen table, basically covering the entire tabletop. That started my interest in genealogy, and shortly thereafter when I found out about GSWC, I joined. But life got in the way, so I dropped my membership and rejoined just a few years ago.

Marcia McCrary: I first became interested in genealogy back in 1968 when I visited the New England states of Vermont, New Hampshire, and Massachusetts and felt like I was home. It was a very strong feeling, so when I returned to Ann Arbor, I poked around a bit, and talked to my mother about it. I now know that there was a very good reason for that feeling. The ancestors of both of my parents are ALL from New England!

I didn't really start investigating until 1992 when I attended my first GSWC meeting and began to accumulate some research skills. My husband and I were looking at a Gotfredson truck to purchase and I thought that the genealogical society might have some research suggestions. Of course, I quickly became involved in the society, joined the board of directors, and then became president.

Question: What is the most surprising thing you've discovered in researching your genealogy? How did that discovery affect the way you view genealogy and did it have an effect on your attitude toward research?

Pam Gibb: Before I rejoined GSWC, I researched my husband's father's side of the family, entirely through FamilySearch.org, and eventually wrote an extensive report that went back to Jean Baptiste Baudreau dit Graveline (1581–1664) and Marie-Anne (Chaveau) Baudreau dit Graveline (1608–bef. 1664), my husband's 8th-great-grandparents. Their son Urbain Baudreau dit Graveline (1633–1695) came to Canada during "The Great Recruitment of 1653" and his name is currently on a plaque in Montreal Park as one of the founders of Montreal. "Dit" [French for "called"] denotes an alternative name used by one or more family members for official records. The "dit name" served to indicate a surname used in the army, a place of origin, land owned or inhabited by an ancestor, the full name of an ancestor, the first name of an ancestor, an original name that was kept when names were standardized in French, and so on. Such names were almost exclusively used in France and New France [Canada]).

Urbain's son (direct ancestor's brother) was one of the founders of Mobile, Alabama, and his son (again, not the direct ancestor) was the first individual to be executed on American soil by being broken on the wheel (much worse than it sounds). Once I rejoined GSWC and signed up for Ancestry.com, it opened up a whole new world for researching!

My maternal side of the family is also interesting in that both of my grandparents' ancestors came over on the Mayflower in 1620. William and Mary Brewster are my 10th-great-grandparents and are ancestors of my grandfather, while Francis Cooke is my 9th-great-grandfather on my grandmother's side. As a result, my research has piqued my interest in history. To be honest, when I was in school, even as early as junior high, history never interested me. I now look back and can't understand how it could ever have been presented as a boring subject.

Marcia McCrary: I wrote about the Rappleye/Rapalje name in Ypsilanti in Capers Vol. 29, No. 1, Fall 2005. I also created a chart of the 50 ways to spell Rappleye, which was printed in Capers Vol 29, No.2, Winter 2006, along with some hints about searching difficult names. Rapalje is a Dutch name, usually pronounced "Rap-el-ye." My big surprise occurred when I was at the Allen County Library in Fort Wayne, Indiana. After several days of looking for my Lemuel Bennett whom I thought was born in 1790 in Connecticut, married in 1801 and died in 1843 in Oneida County, New York—I know now that I should have also been searching in Herkimer County—I walked into the stack area for the Family Histories and stopped in the R section. There was a new book about the Rapalje name called "Rapelje Rasters: a Genealogy" by Armida Sharpin. AND my Catharine Rappleye was listed in it!

While researching the families for the Capers Fall 2005 article, I had created a database with 450 names in it. Imagine my surprise to learn that the grandparents of several of the Washtenaw County Rappleyes were also my Catharine's grandparents!!! Catharine Rappleye is my 2nd-great-grandmother, born about 1807 in New York, and died about 1860, probably in New York. She married Charles W. Roberson about 1830. Their son William W. Roberson (b. June 1836 in New York) married Caroline Trask Bennett 7 July 1856 in Lowell, Kent County, Michigan. William and Caroline divorced about 1890, and the family stories seemed to be lacking about his line. I was amazed to learn that Charles W. Roberson came to Michigan, lived in the Hastings area, spent some time in Kansas, returned to Michigan and is buried in a cemetery we used to pass by when we would drive from our cottage in Delton, Michigan to East Lansing where my mother's sister lived.

Question: In the time you've been doing genealogy, what is the worst brick wall you've encountered? Have you yet been able to work through it or around it? If so, how did you get "unstuck?"

Pam Gibb: Instead of telling you about my brick wall, I'd like to tell you about my aunt and uncle's brick wall—yes, the same aunt and uncle mentioned earlier [Ronald and Florine (Hurst) Brunger]. My uncle was a Methodist minister. In fact, during the time he was pastor at the Dixboro Methodist Church in Ann Arbor from 1937 to 1940, he wrote the history of the church, in addition to working on family history. But the family research came to a total standstill (they didn't use the term "brick wall" back then) and they couldn't find any more family ancestors. Also keep in mind, this was well before the internet allowed us easy access to countless records.

Ronald and Florine visited the hometown of my grandfather George Hurst in Burrville, Tennessee back in the mid-1940s, I believe. While there, my uncle gave a guest sermon at the church and told the parishioners about the family history in the area. At the end of the service, a gentleman approached Ronald and Florine and told them he had something he thought they would be interested in—a family Bible that had belonged to the Hurst ancestors! Because of this Bible, they were able to continue their research of the family back to the 1303 date I mentioned earlier. Point of this story is that you never know where or how your brick wall will come down.

Marcia McCrary: It is still a mystery to me about WHERE in New York my Bates family came from. They lived in Oakland County, Michigan, arriving in 1825. Orin Bates' obituary in 1876 states that he and his wife, Polly, were "of New York", but gave no clue as to the exact location. My current thought is to look at their Oakland County, Avon Township neighbors to see where those folks were from.

Question: Please tell us about your most gloriously successful moment in researching your genealogy.

Pam Gibb: There are several times I've had an "aha" moment, but my biggest success was when I was able to verify the Jeremiah Bennett and Abigail Taber union, which then took my ancestors up through the Taber side to the Francis Cooke Mayflower connection.

Another gloriously successful moment in researching came from the website GenealogyBank.com. I recently researched and wrote a report on the Rust/Phelps family history as it pertains to the log cabin at Cobblestone Farm [in Ann Arbor, Michigan] from 1868 to 1966 and had submitted the report to the Cobblestone Farm Association. Two days after I submitted the report, I discovered both of my great-great-grandparents' obituaries on GenalogyBank.com. Not only did these obituaries tell me when they emigrated from England and when they married, but also when they purchased the log cabin. This discovery enabled me to confirm all of these dates.

Marcia McCrary: Having discovered that my 2nd-great-grandparents, Joseph Grice McClure and Emeline Lewis McClure, were living in Macomb County, Michigan from the 1870 census, I went to the Macomb County Court House with David Fuller, a friend from church, whose ancestors were also from there. We started in the vital records office, and then went to look at land records.

I copied 10 pages of land transfers involving my McClure ancestors. On the way home David suggested we drive by one of them. I fanned the sheets and picked one. It was near 28 Mile Road and Mt.Vernon, and not very populated back in the 1990s. At the intersection of the two roads was a church and a cemetery! It turns out I am related to about one-third of the people in the cemetery. Not only are Joseph and Emeline McClure buried there, but so are my great-grandparents, Emory and Sarah Caroline (McClure) Webster, who both died in Grand Rapids, and my great-grandmothers' brothers and the families they married into. I was so excited that day that it took me a few weeks to realize the person buried next to Emory Webster was his mother, Susan Bates Webster! Her parents are buried in Rochester, not too far away, just over the county line in Oakland County.

Pamela Gibb and her husband were born and raised in Ann Arbor, so their roots are definitely in this area. Pam grew up on Ferry Field in a house where Schembechler Hall now stands, so she has a unique perspective pertaining to the athletic campus. Pam's family research includes the surnames: Gibb, Sautter, Gray, Behnke, Spies, Rust, Bennett, Corkins, Hurst, and Parris. These are just some of the names from Washtenaw County.

Marcia McCrary is a retired media specialist and a graduate of Eastern Michigan University. She attended her first meeting of Genealogical Society of Washtenaw County in 1992 and was pretty much hooked. Marcia joined the Society's board of directors and served as its president for 26 years. Her other interests include the Ypsilanti Historical Society and Archives and something of a passion for antique trucks and fire trucks. For six years, Marcia served as curator of the Michigan Firehouse Museum.

Carol Uhal was born in Port Huron, Michigan and is now a resident of Ypsilanti Township. She has been a member of the Society since 2010. Carol has been researching lines of her family since 2007 with varying degrees of success. She is now researching primarily in Saint Clair and Sanilac counties and in the area of London, Ontario. In researching her paternal French line Tesson D'Honoré (later Anglicized to Henry), Carol is concentrating on Quebec City and Montreal.

REV. FRIEDRICH SCHMID'S BAPTISMAL RECORDS, 1847–1875, WASHTENAW COUNTY, MICHIGAN
(Part Twenty-Seven)

Translated & transcribed by Rob and Cyndy Steward, 2021

The original records of Rev. Friedrich Schmid are currently housed and may be accessed in The Michigan Historical Collections, Bentley Historical Library, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Please note that the handwriting of Rev. Schmid is not easily deciphered, in part due to his penmanship. The records contain entries written in old German script and some using English script. In addition, the pages in his records are not numbered. It is our understanding that he kept notes as he traveled and then entered them into his record books when he returned home. This may explain that while the records are fairly complete there are some gaps or omissions.

We have maintained the spelling Rev. Schmid used in the case of names. Items enclosed in parentheses are usually comments or notes of the translators or indicate alternate spellings. The term "geb." in relation to a female name, refers to "born as" or maiden name. A "+" at the beginning or end of a line indicates the person is deceased. "Unehl." indicates that the parents were not married to each other at the time of the baptism.

Rev. Schmid's Baptismal Records are in column format as follows:
(Left hand pages – a.) "Chronological Number" of the child for that particular year; Name of Child; Parents Names; Place; Birth Date.
(Right hand pages – b.) Baptismal Date and Place; Sponsors Names (sometimes marital status or relationship of the sponsors are listed).
Columns with no entry or missing information are indicated by three hyphens (---).
